

wästberg / w161 marfa

Product Information

For their architectural project, the inde/jacobs gallery building in Marfa Texas, Claesson Koivisto Rune designed a task light for Mr Vilis Inde's gallery desk.

The small town of Marfa is best known as the home of artist Donald Judd, who bought several buildings and turned them into permanent installations of minimalist art.

A lamp for an art gallery should do its job and not steal any attention. The w 161 marfa lamp, a LED task light, is made of one piece of anodised or lacquered aluminium, folded three times. When seen from the side, the lamp is merely a thin line.

Minimal expression. Maximum efficiency in material, production, light and energy consumption.
